dull; railroad bonds steady. Silver at the stock exchange was neglected.

The movements at the stock exchange were more than usually erratic. The bears started out with an attack on some of the grangers, but the movement was of the grangers, but the movement was short lived, as Sugar was taken in hand by the builts and advanced from 90% to 90%. This so disconcerted the shorts that a covering movement was started at once in other parts of the list. The appointment of a receiver for the Thurber, Wyland company operated against the market and the bears again began a systematic raid and were more successful than usual. Declines ranging 2 to 3% were recorded right through the list. The market closed weak in tone. The sales were 201,648 shares.

Tried and Approved by the Billious. For over a third of a century a great specific has been on trial by a national jury of the bilious. Although a verdict in its favor was rendered long since, it is still on trial. Never when it has been "weighed in the balance" has it been found wanting. The name of this medicine is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which more speedily than any other terminates those villianous seasations which attend disorder of the liver. It expels bile from the blood and secretions, remedies chronic costiveness and reinforces the organ of digestion and assimilation. Sick head-nobe, yellowness of the skin and openalis, furred tongue, and other indications that the liver has temporarily knocked off work and gone on the strike, disappear when it is used, it is a most efficient saleguard against ma-laris, rheumatism and kidney trouble, and fortifies a pervous and onfeebled invalid of-fectually.

A Favorite in Kentucky. Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton. Ky., for the past twelve years, says. "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. His Friend Wouldn't Believe Him, and So They Parted Ferever. "Did any of you ever see one of those Feejee island dogs?" queried the man with the mutton chop whiskers as we finished discussing terriers.

Nobody had, so he pulled down his vest and continued:

"I owned one once, and no man's check for $3,000 would buy him. Jay Gould offered me $2,500 in gold for him, but I waved the little millionaire away." "Must have been a wonderful dog. said the baldheaded man.
"Of course he was. In fact, he was too wonderful. It was just like owning an intelligent boy. I used to be almost ashamed to look him in the face. In 20 days after I got him he could read as well as the average boy of 6."

"Bosh!" shouted the baldheaded man. "Gentlemen, I'm not stuffing you. I tell you that dog could not only read newspaper, but after he got the hang of our confounded English language it was a positive treat to sit down and converse with him. He picked up the political situation in no time at all, and was one of the strongest supporters Grant had. One of the best political speeches I ever heard was made by that dog."

"I don't believe a word of it!" bluntly exclaimed the baldheaded man as he got "Did you ever see a Feejee dog?" de manded the man with the whiskers.

"Never visited the islands?"

"Never talked with any one who had?" "And yet you call me a liar! Sir, I indet upon an apology!"

"You won't get one from me!" "Then, sir, I will tell you what that dog once said about baldheaded men in general. He had been reading the morning paper, when he suddenly heaved a sigh and turned to me with, 'General, if you ever meet a baldheaded man with a wart on his chin, and two moles on his neck, and eyes the color of buttermilk, and ears as big' "---

"He'll lick you inside of a minit!" roared the baldheaded man as he sprang up and made ready. We pulled them apart and kept them away from each other until they cooled down, but they could never be friends again in this deceitful world, never! never!-Detroit Free Press.

A SURFEIT.

Growing. Varied and characteristic were the methods of discipline of Captain F-, the master of one of the most successful whaleships that ever sailed from a New England port. An old saflor says that when he was what might be termed "a greeny" he shipped with Captain Ffor a voyage to the Arctic ocean. After some months of cruising the "salt grub" ran short, and the crew were forced to eat the chickens and roosters which were aboard the ship. The narrator

I didn't object to th' kind of food, but there was grumbling among the men when we were served day after day with fowl. I heard all the talk and was simple enough to think it smart to crow Instily whenever the steward was carrying in fowl to the captain's table. So delighted was I with my efforts that I grew bold, and one day I cookie-doodle-dooed just as close to the captain as I dared. Then I got out of the way. After mess somebody came and told me that the captain wanted to see me aft.

"Well, Joe," said the captain, "I hear you are quite a crower."

I was embarrassed, but as the captain looked pleasant I didn't know anything better to do than to smile and say nothing.
"I should like to hear what you can do. Get up there," said the captain, pointing to a spar. I did not obey at once. The captain picked up a rope's end that seemed to be handy, and I climbed up on the spar.

"Now crow!" said the captain. I couldn't make a sound, but the captain took a step nearer, and I crowed. "Keep it up till I give you the word to

I began and crowed for 10 minutes; then I got out of wind, my throat was dry, and I passed.

"I didn't tell you to stop," said the "I can't do it any longer," said L

"Crow!" thundered the captain. And then, with the captain's eye fixed on me, I kept up my cockie-doodie-dooing for another 10 minutes.

That'll do. Get down." I got down. "Have you got crowing enough?"

"Yes, sir." "So have L Go forward." I went forward, and you may be sure I did no more crowing that voyage,- Youth's Companion. Great Expectations. Bix or seven boothlacks were shooting eraps on the sidewalk in front of a busi-
